

Workplace Wellbeing
Team Number: IIDA

A COVID-19 Virtual Ideation Experience

Produced by the design firm
Huntsman Architectural Group,
this diagram illustrates new spaces
and adjacencies in a future workplace

High-Level
Adjacency
Diagram Future

Kit of Parts:

Public

- Arrival Zone
- Mail / Deliveries
- Eat / Work

Neighborhood

- Open Workstations
- Focus / Phone Rooms
- Recharge Spaces
- Semi-Open Collaboration Spaces
- Enclosed Collaboration Spaces
- Library
- Support Spaces

Buffer Zone

Future Considerations:

- Adjusted adjacencies - interaction of public to private zones
- Increased ratio of collaboration spaces to workstations
- Expand & increase support zones to include sanitation function
- Introduce buffer zones

A COVID-19 Virtual Ideation Experience

Workplace Wellbeing

Team Number: IIDA

A mix of desking, casual seating, and a standing table in an open plan.

Design by Huntsman Architectural Group

Photography by Garrett Rowland

A COVID-19 Virtual Ideation Experience

Workplace Wellbeing

Team Number: IIDA

An example of an enclosed room for private call, focused time away from the desk, or a one-on-one chat.

Design by Huntsman Architectural
Group

Photography by Anthony Lindsey

A COVID-19 Virtual Ideation Experience

Workplace Wellbeing

Team Number: IIDA

An example of a small enclosed room for private call or focused time away from the desk.

Design by Huntsman Architectural Group

Photography by Anthony Lindsey

A COVID-19 Virtual Ideation Experience

Workplace Wellbeing

Team Number: IIDA

In the design for Aquent NY, an area with casual seating offers a more relaxed setting and a place for a small, casual meeting.

Design by Huntsman Architectural Group

Photography by Garrett Rowland